When the fog comes in thick and solid over Mount Tamalpais and the Marin Hills, it bodes well for those running the Double Dipsea. Walt Stack's Masochist's Delight has been a real cooker a couple of times in years past, but the Eighth Annual Double Dipsea was held under ideal conditions for the second year in a row. The fog was so thick at the top of the course that the trees were dripping water, causing muddy running for a few steps on some parts of the trail (now we know why they call it the rain forest).
