Jennifer and Michael were the most popular names given to children born in New York City last year, according to the city Health Commissioner, Dr. Reinaldo A. Ferrer.

The top 10 names given for boys and girls have remained the same since 1976, according to health department statistics. Only the order has changed.

In order of preference, the girls names are Jennifer, Jessica, Nicole, Melissa, Michelle, Lisa, Elizabeth, Maria, Christine and Danielle. The boys names are Michael, David, Jason, Christopher, John, Joseph, Anthony, James, Robert and Daniel.

The Health Department began tabulating the 10 most popular names in 1968.

In 1888 the most popular names for girls were Mary, Catherine, Margaret, Annie, Rose, Marie, Esther, Sarah, Frances and Ida. The most popular names for boys were John, William, Charles, George, Joseph, Edward, James, Louis, Francis and Samuel.

Once upon a morning dreary, half awake and eyesight bleary,
While I fetched the "Daily Herald" lying there outside my door,
As I stood there, stretching, yawning,
Wond'ring what the day was spawning,
Came a figure through the dawning,
fiercely running as to war;
"Who is this," I asked myself, "who runs as if he's off to war?"
"Just a loony, nothing more,"
I could see his Pro-Keds clearly, and his perspiration nearly Soaked right through the cotton sweatshirt and the running shorts he wore;
Shorter breaths he now was taking,
And from grunts that he was making,
I felt sure he must be aching from the labors of his chore;
"Does your body ache," I asked, "each time that you perform this chore?"
Quoth the Jogger, "Ev'ry pore!"
Striding down the street, he ran there, trotting past each parked sedan there,
Till the air was filled with gasps that I had not heard heretofore;
Soon I knew as he came closer,
He was not a loony, no sir
Or some early-rising grocer racing toward some distant store;
"You're a Jogger," I exclaimed, "and not some grocer with a store!"
Quoth the Jogger, "To the core!"
Round the block he now was veering, then quite soon was reappearing, Battered, scarred and bleeding in a state most people would deplore;
Ev'ry garment he was wearing
Now was either ripped or tearing;
Furthermore his legs were bearing signs of toothmarks by the score
"What on earth," I asked, "has caused these signs of toothmarks by the score?"
Quoth the Jogger, "Dogs galore!"
Suddenly, it started raining, and I thought he'd be complaining of conditions unforeseen
That Mother Nature had in store; Drenched with rain, he soon was dripping,
And sometimes he lost his gripping Causing him to wind up slipping on the pavement bruised and sore;
"Give it up," I pleaded, as he lay there gasping, bruised and sore;
Quoth the Jogger, "Let it pour!"
On and on, he did continue,
straining ev'ry bone and sinew, Round the block and back again until each passing was a bore;
"Hey," I asked him, "aren't you done now?"
"Surely this can't be much fun now;
"Fifteen miles or more you've run now since I've been here, keeping score;
'Isn't that enough?" I uttered, as I stood there, keeping score;
Quoth the Jogger, "Just one more!"
Then it was that I did see there just how old he seemed to be there Ancient was his weathered face with wrinkles I could not ignore;
Years of running so insanelly
Made him look much older, plainly, Than his age, which I felt mainly must be fifty-five or more;
"What's your age?" I asked, expecting he'd say fifty-five or more; Quoth the Jogger, "Twenty-four!"
(with apologies to Edgar Allen Poe)

Doctors Say Moderate Drinking May Be Healthy in Some Cases

ST. LOUIS, June 20 (AP)—One or two drinks a day may be all right, a panel of doctors agreed today at the annual meeting of the American Medical Association.

Alcoholics should not drink, they said, and pregnant women probably should not drink. But for the average healthy person, moderate drinking is apparently not harmful, the added.

In fact, evidence is mounting that people who drink alcohol are 30 percent less likely to suffer heart attacks, said Dr. Arthur L. Klatsky, director of the coronary care unit of the Kaiser-Permanente Medical Center in Oakland, Calif.

Generalization on Effects

Asked at a news conference to generalize about the effects of moderate drinking, Dr. Frank A. Seixas, medical and research executive of the National Council on Alcoholism, said:

"It seems to me that most people, except alcoholics, people with some degree of sophistication, people who are healthy and not pregnant show no harm from moderate drinking.

"People with disease conditions, who are taking medication, should be consulting with their physician on how much and when they can drink. And until there's further information on the low-dose effects of alcohol on pregnancy, the prudent woman will exercise her right not to drink during pregnancy."

Dr. Klatsky defined "a drink" as either a can of beer, about three and a half ounces of table wine or one ounce of liquor. In studies of thousands of members of the Kaiser-Permanente health care plan, he said, one of the findings that emerged was that beer drinkers usually know how much beer they consume each day, wine drinkers are less certain, and whisky drinkers often "honestly don't know how much they consume."

Vodka for Hidden Drinkers

Dr. Seixas said that "people who are hiding their alcoholism tend more toward vodka." One reason is that vodka does not have an odor.

Dr. Klatsky said that a study of 87,000 patients at Kaiser-Permanente showed that moderate drinking—one or two drinks a day—was not associated with a higher prevalence of hypertension, high blood pressure.

He also said that studies indicated that for those who drink the risk of heart attack appears to be 0.7 with 1.0 as the standard, which represents a 30 percent lower risk.

Further, he said, nondrinkers appear to be at greater risk of dying of cardiac sudden death, not just having heart attacks.

An "attractive hypothesis" to explain the apparently protective function of alcohol, Dr. Klatsky said, is that alcohol may be related to the amount of a fatty substance in the blood known as high-density lipoprotein, HDL. Recent studies have indicated that HDL is directly related to decreased risk of heart attack, as opposed to low-density lipoprotein, LDL, which apparently is associated with a higher incidence of heart attack.

Comparing The Running Drinks

We asked physiologist William J. Fink, Dave Costill's associate at the Ball State Human Performance Lab, to evaluate drinks that runners might consider using to replace fluids lost during prolonged exercise such as marathon running. The drinks covered are advised ("yes") or not advised ("no") in three categories: Before (that is, less than a half hour prior to competition), during (with no distinction made for various points in a race), after (soon after competition). William Fink cautions, "There are great individual differences among runners. They should experiment in training and of course use what works for them, which is not always what is theoretically best."

Drink	Before	During	After	Reason
1. Tap water	Yes	Yes	Yes	Water is the basic liquid your system needs.
2. Carbonated mineral water	Yes	No	Yes	Carbonation can cause problems during race.
3. "Athletic" drinks (such as Gatorade, ERG and the like)	Yes	Yes*	Yes	Only if 10-15 minutes before because of possible insulin reaction to sugar; qualified(*) yes during because if not well diluted sugar concentration may retard emptying of fluid from stomach to intestine.
4. Cola	No	No	Yes	Has twice as much sugar as athletic drinks and may retard emptying of fluids; good afterwards for carbohydrate replacement.
5. Diet cola	Yes	No	No	Carbonation is a problem during race and lack of carbohydrates limits value afterwards.
6. Defizzed cola	No	Yes	No	Properly diluted (as at the Honolulu Marathon), a good fluid during race but lack of palatability may make it undesirable at other times.
7. Beer (light or regular)	No	No	Yes	Controversial; alcohol content does not help performance; mellowing effect after because of rapid absorption of alcohol through stomach.
8. Wine/liquor	No	No	No	Alcohol content is undesirable.
9. Fruit juices	No	No	Yes	Sugar concentration is high; afterward, when fluid emptying speed not a factor, O.K.
10. Coffee	Yes	No	No	Caffeine may provide pre-race stimulation.
11. Iced tea	Yes	Yes	Yes	Plain (without sugar) iced tea is a good source of fluid plus its caffeine content can be a pre-race stimulant.
12. Milk	No	No	No	More a food than a drink.

Western States 100--1980

by Dick Collins

At least 10 DSE members completed the 1980 version of the Western States Endurance Run on June 28. The course was harder than normal. In the higher altitudes, there were patches of unmelted snow which made the footing a little more hazardous. Later in the day, the temperatures in the two deep canyons rose up near the 100 mark. There was also an additional four miles added onto the course.

DSEers Martha Maricle and Skip Swannack finished under 24 hours to receive the coveted silver belt buckle. Sally Edwards was the winner of the women's race.

Tom Zavortink, Jim Fauss, and John Notch finished under 24 hours. Tom McManus, Dick Collins, Sherm Welpton, and Tim Smith all finished under 30 hours and received a replica of the silver buckle mounted on a plaque.

Tom Zavortink improved his position from 13th to 10th this year, even though his time was approximately 2½ hours longer than a year ago. Jim Fauss had a great final effort to finish under 24 hours, as he completed the race for the third time. Tim Smith, after two years of frustration, completed the race in just over 28 hours.

Breakfast Run

by Len Coleman

In the Nor-Cal Running Review a while back there was a tongue and cheek comparison of a jogger and a runner. Jim Nuccio describes the jogger who suffers from mild heat prostration after a few miles and thinks he is experiencing "runner's high." He then depicts the runner who has just done his regular 20 miler, is planted in front of the TV dipping chips and drinking beer and knows he has "runner's high."

I'm not sure which category I fall into, but I do have some indications. I usually run in the early morning and begin to think about breakfast on the return portion of the run--if not before. On DSE race days my family and I often go out for breakfast immediately after Walt kisses the 5th woman. At any rate I am conditioned to think of running and breakfast in the same cartoon bubble. My brother-in-law says, disparagingly, that all I ever do is run and eat.

One place I enjoy for breakfast is the Mission Rock Resort which juts out over San Francisco Bay at China Basin. One way to get to this restaurant is to make it the end of a point to point run from Golden Gate Park.

The run begins at the Hall of Flowers and then goes via the Japanese Tea Garden down JFK Drive to Ocean Beach. It continues up by Cliff House hill and along Land's End, through Pacific Heights, and up Lincoln Blvd. to the Golden Gate Bridge. From the bridge it goes down to Ft. Point and along the Promenade and the Marina, through Ft. Mason, along Aquatic Park and by the Dolphin Club. It continues along the Embarcadero, across the 3rd street draw bridge, back to the waterfront and then to the Mission Rock for a distance of about 17 to 18 miles.

DSE'ers will recognize most of the route since it includes the better part of four popular DSE runs.

I am organizing a "breakfast run" for Saturday, August 16th. We will start from the Hall of Flowers at 6:00 and arrive at the restaurant around 8 to 8:30. Those who prefer a shorter run can join us anywhere along the route. Since this is a point to point run we will need some friends and relatives to meet us there with sweats and return transportation. They should also plan to join us for breakfast.

If you would like to join us please call me so that I can make reservations. Let me know if you need or can offer return transportation.

WALT STACK RUNS HIS 100th MARATHON!

The amazing Walt Stack put another one in the record books October 26 when he finished in 4:47 (673rd place). The YMCA Embarcadero Golden Gate Marathon marked the occasion of Walt's 100th assault on the grueling event over 26.2 miles known as the marathon. NBC Nightly News the evening of October 26 showed Walt as the official starter of the race. Amidst spectacular views of San Francisco, there was Walt rhapsodizing about the women in front of him.

BREAKFAST RUN

Gunnel Taylor's breakfast run October 18 began at 7:30 in the brisk morning air at Redwood Regional Park in Oakland. Len Coleman, Susan Blake, and Gunnel set off on a 10-mile trek up and down the hills. They got warm after a few minutes of running only to freeze down in the valley. They had more than one reason to push the hills coming back up! They were rewarded by a good, hot breakfast at the Egg and Applepress Restaurant in Oakland, a fascinating place full of old clocks, roll top desks, and a model Bart train that actually runs. They were joined for breakfast by Jack Taylor, Duane Wyant, Gwen, Michael, and Beverly Coleman. These breakfast runs are excellent for DSE members who want to do longer training runs on the weekends. We encourage others to organize runs for Saturdays and publish this information in The DSE News.

HISTORY IN THE MAKING AT THE NEW YORK MARATHON, October 26, 1980

Alberto Salazar ran the fastest first marathon in history today. He turned in a 2:09:38. He snatched a repeat victory from Bill Rodgers who tripped at 14 miles but still managed to finish 5th in 2:13. Grete Waitz ran the fastest marathon ever run by a woman. She set the world record at 2:25:41, a time that would have won many marathons.

Best wishes for a good run to those of you lucky enough to be heading to Honolulu!

There are still beautiful certificates available to those of you who ran the Golden Gate Bridge Run on National Jogging Day but forgot to pick up your certificates. The certificates are signed by Walt Stack and NJD officials.
They would make a handsome addition to your trophy room!

"Smallfry sitting" at DSE runs is offered as a FREE service by Hayley and Rochelle Green. Call before a run to make arrangements.
Phone (415) 431-5712.
